COMMUNITY MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

Our community member spotlight for March is David Lackey and Inner Sanctum Audio. We had an opportunity to discuss with Mr. Lackey his business and this is what he had to say.

BLG: What drew you to the world of audio?

DL: As a lifelong music-lover, audio equipment has always been a hobby of mine. Building audio systems that provide tremendous bang for the buck is something that I have always taken pride in. After a long career in media sales, I decided to turn my passion for audio into a new career. Modern lifestyles have changed the way most people listen to their music, which is why Inner Sanctum Audio focuses on headphones, portable audio and desktop/computer audio.

BLG: How long has Inner Sanctum Audio been around?

DL: We just launched in November, 2014. The website is still evolving as we become an authorized dealer for more brands. We will be hosting pop-up shops in various locations like record stores, coffee shops and live music venues. Our goal is to provide products that have the best sound at every price point. We will not carry anything that we do not feel is an amazing value and the best in its price class.

BLG: How were you able to come up with such a unique business name?

DL: Listening to music on great headphones is a very intimate experience. It really does create for the listener an inner sanctuary where the music can take you away from the outside world. That was the inspiration for the name Inner Sanctum Audio.

BLG: What different products does Inner Sanctum Audio carry?

DL: We carry headphones from Aurisonics, Grado, ThinkSound, Pendulomic, and very soon Beyerdynamic and Sennheiser as well. These include in-ear, on-ear, around-ear and wireless models. By design, these brands are not household names, but they offer greater performance than what I call the "mall brands." We also have amplifiers and DACs (digital-to-analog converters), and speakers from brands such as AudioEngine, iFi and Vanatoo. It is important to note that we are an authorized dealer for everything we carry.

BLG: What sets Inner Sanctum Audio apart from its competitors?

DL: In addition to our product selection, our customer service sets us apart. We love helping novices get into the world of higher resolution music files and better sounding gear to appreciate it. We are here to answer any questions and walk people through the set-up process with any gear they buy. If problems arise, customers deal only with us, not the manufacturers. We'll make it right. With our pop-up shop, another difference is the ability to audition all of the gear and hear the differences. With the brands we carry, this is not usually possible.

BLG: Where can consumers view and order products?

DL: Our selection of products in stock may be found on our website, www.InnerSanctumAudio.com. We are also happy to special order any model from any of our brands and rush-ship it to the customer. Orders may also be placed by telephone and of course in person at our pop-up shop.

BLG: If the readers wanted to reach out to you David, how and where can they go for more information?

DL: I can be reached at 888-237-1270 or via email at djlackey@innersanctumaudio.com.

Thank you so much to David Lackey and Inner Sanctum Audio.

FREE STUFF

Fans of BLG,

We hope that this New Year has been filled with new possibilities thus far and we at Boston Law Group LLC would love to show our appreciation by inviting you to participate in our Annual BLG Giveaway; the prize items consist of a ThinkSound Rain2 In-Ear headphone donated by New York City's Inner Sanctum Audio, and two $25 dollar Amazon Gift Cards. In order to claim the Rain2 headset, which is a headphone that delivers excellent quality sound along with comfort, the 4th (in honor of BLG's 4 years in existence) person who correctly answers the BLG Website Scavenger Hunt trivia question below will be declared the winner. The Amazon gift cards will be given away by taking every fan of BLG's name and putting it in a hat; a BLG staff member will be asked to pick the two random winners. The winners will be announced through a special BLG Email Blast. Thank you all for kicking off another amazing year with us and let's continue to dominate 2015 with a positive bang!

Trivia Question: Following BLG Attorney Renee Boston's graduation from Florida Coastal School of Law, in what city did she become an attorney for the Office of The Public Defender? (Hint: <http://www.bostonlawllc.com/>) Send your answer to info@bostonlawllc.com.

“No” Is Not A Dirty Word

By: Renee Boston

No one likes to be told No, when trying to do anything. To avoid being told no or that they cannot do something, many people do not even try (or ask) in order to avoid the negative emotions associated with the word no.

Many successful people have tried and failed numerous times before finding their place. Oprah was told that she didn't have the right “look” for television and she could forget about ever being in front of the camera. We all know how that turned out.

Michael Jordan tried out for the varsity basketball team as a sophomore and was told no. He practiced and trained and is arguably one of the greatest and well-known athletes in American history.

Don't be afraid of being told no (except if you are doing something foolish or criminal, like jumping off of a building with no parachute or trying to rob a bank). Lets all try and be more courageous in 2015.

Hello Doc Are Your There?

Investigation Finds Many Medicaid Doctors Unavailable To Patients

By: Marcus B. Boston

Based on an article reported in the New York Times, many doctors who handle Medicaid patients are not available to said patients.

“Large numbers of doctors who are listed as serving Medicaid patients are not available to treat them, federal investigators said in a new report.”

The article states further that, ““Half of providers could not offer appointments to enrollees,” the investigators said in the report, which will be issued on Tuesday.”

SAFETY TIP

When its time to “Spring Ahead” or “Fall Back” with Daylight Savings Time, don't forget to change the batteries in all smoke detectors and carbon monoxide detectors. If you do not have a carbon monoxide detector, please get one. Many lives are saved annually with these detectors.

KUDOS KORNER

“ I know Marcus from childhood. The only thing I can say is what an amazing person, I'd hire him as my lawyer in a heartbeat. God bless you Marcus you are a rare human being. Be blessed.”

HAPPY BIRTHDAY MARCUS!!!

Be sure to drop Marcus a Facebook message or email wishing him a happy birthday on March 25th!

HE SAID/SHE SAID

This month's He Said/She Said takes us to Florida Avenue Grill. This piece of history is located in the Shaw Area of DC near Howard University. They bill themselves as the "Oldest Soul Food Restaurant in the World."

He Said

I must say off the bat that this place blew me away!

When we walked in it had the "old school" diner feel to it. Add to this one can feel the history of the place with all of the old pictures which are on the walls of all the famous people who have stopped in for a bite to eat.

I ordered the spare ribs, collard green, and yams. The meat was so tender that it slid off the bone. In addition to this, the sauce gave the ribs a nice flavor. One thing though, the sauce did have a little spicy kick to it.

The greens were delicious. At first I was a little hesitant with the greens because they were not "cut up really small", as this is how I am accustomed to eating my greens. Nevertheless, they were really good and seasoned well.

Finally, the yams...all I am going to say about the yams is...amazing!

Like Renee, I would have given it a 10 out of 10 but the parking situation brings it down 1 peg. 9 out of 10

She Said

I ordered the fried chicken because you cannot call yourself a "soul food" establishment and not have good fried chicken. The green beans were excellent and so was the mac and cheese. I did taste the greens and yams. I'm not a sweet potato fan, but the yams were good enough for me to actually order. The greens were good (tasted like the ones your grandma makes), but they just weren't cut up. The sweet tea was good for "non-southern" sweet tea, but next time I will try the lemonade. On a side note, there is no soda fountain, so sodas are bottled and there are no refills. Remember, there is limited parking in the area and when you find street parking its like being called down on the Price Is Right. This is a "new" place that I will be sure to bring my out of town guests here. It gave me the 'Itis.'

9 (deducted a point for parking situation)
